

Rivercrest stomps out breast cancer

By DAWN BOONE

The kids at Rivercrest's YWCA program are on a mission. They want everyone to know that you can fight cancer and win. They have an inspiration that is very close to their heart, Mrs. Charlotte Tuggle. The after school teacher has inspired them to dream big and never give up due to her own struggle with the disease.

"I love them all," said Tuggle. "Through the years the love only grows. God is great." Each year the after school program puts on a special show during the month of October that is meant to be an inspiration to anyone who is struggling with breast, or any form of cancer. A couple of the kids in the program are also cancer survivors and when it comes to stomping out cancer, or singing about a cure, they put their whole selves into the part.

Jacqueline Williams, Director of the YWCA for the Memphis Area was the guest of honor this year as the kids performed skits, sang songs, recited poetry and stomped out breast cancer.

Rock the house

The YWCA after school kids were ready to rock the house with song and dance. But first they had to pose for a picture with Jacqueline Williams and Charlotte Tuggle of the YWCA.
